

DAILY LECTION REFLECTION INSTRUCTIONS

To help us foster biblical scholarship within the context of a theological community, each day from the start of the term to the end of the next to last week, there will be assigned lections from the Old and New Testaments. The term's lection schedule will be published shortly before the term begins. You may complete the lections in English. But to the extent you can do so, you are strongly encouraged to complete them in the original languages.

You will consider the lections independently most days and are welcome to share edifying comments throughout the term as you think will be helpful to the rest of the class. You may do so in the "Daily Lections" forum.

During our live seminars, we will have our lections as part of our seminar time. By the end of our course's final week, you must complete a short quiz to report on your experience with the lections through the balance of the term.
